

Bottomless River

Poems

Friend

Dark river waters
I cannot see my reflection
Brown earth liquid flows
Yet I know
Even at this young age
That I'll always be with you
Even if after today
I never see you again
Slow Perpetual Wonderings
Leaving me behind.

Intersection

I watch you
Good woman
A person better than me
I don't mean to judge
Respect
Is it greater than love?
I wish I could offer you purity
Only muddied pasts
And the tentative present
Your path
Dissected Mine
The Loss was Yours.

Culture

Wasn't it all better
Before?
The culture of our youth
Always is
And I learn of those
Gone before
And feel admiration
And saddened by the now
But all I can
Feel
Is the music
And the art
Of the times
It was Ours.

Liberation

One day
I will escape
The country offers nothing
To the Young
Unless you're a fucking farmer
They just don't Understand Me
Am I alone here?
There must be something better
Than this.

Peddle

I'm good at this
And I don't give a fuck anymore
Sell a house

An idea, a dream
I can do it
It's all a game you see
And I'm dealing the cards
Line up suckers
The lies are all here
At a price

Too long to belong

Growing up was perfect
Sun full
Space wide
Grass yellow
River cool
Freedom
I know now
But it's already too late
I've grown older
So far removed
From how it used to be.
And what is to come?
It used to be easy
But now I'm frozen.

Veins

The river bank imbued
With the corpses
Of trees
Limbs
Reaching out
Clinging to the water
In memory
Perpetually changing
Forever Dying
Bringing Life.
